If the Russian correspondent of the Liberta is correctly informed, a very picturesque innovation will shortly be introduced into the Russian army. By order of the Minister of War an exercise which has hitherto been the privilege of kings and nobles will form part of the military Itraining, since every regiment in the army will have its detachment of sportsmen, who will ware war against the wolf, the bear, and all kinds of game. Besides gaining considerable knowledge of the topography of the different districts by hunting, the sportsmen, the Government believes, will be better prepared to undertake peri-lous and difficult missions in times of war if the soldiers have been accustomed to the dangers and deprivations which they will have to encounter in their sport in the immense forests of the interior of Russia.

> It must require nerves of iron to enter the shipbuilding business. We doubt whether there be any other British industry which can compare with it for swift abbs and flows of prosperity and adversity. This characteristic comes out very forcibly in a summary showing the comparative annual fluctuation of tonnage affont since 1379, which has just been issued by a firm of shipbrokers. In 1883, the British mercantile marine was increased by 324 steamships, having an aggregate tonnage of 633,8 is, after deducting those taken off the register. The sailing fleet, however, showed a reduction of 210 craft, aggregating 64,347 tons, and the net gain was therefore, something under 600,000 tens. Even in the following year, an enormous increaseabout 420,000 tons net-took place, but then came an astonishing collapse, the figures for 1835 showing a net angmentation of only 120,000 tons. No doubt, our shipbuilders concluded, as well they might, that the bottom of the well was reached. Not so, however, for last year's record gives an increase aggregating 57.495 tons, while the sailing fleet diminished by 39,905 tons, giving a net gain of only 17,508 tons compared with nearly 600,000 tons three years before. In connection with the question note that England now has affoat, for purposes of commerce only, vessels aggregating 93 million tons register. Truly a property worth insuring, without taking into account the cargoes.

Getting a little better from rest and PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH. quiet, I sought to do some work, but was soon taken with a pain in my side, which in a little while seemed to spread over my whole body, and throbbed in my every limb. This was followed by a cough and shortness of breath, until finally I could not new, and I took to my bed for the second, and, as I thought, for the last time. My friends told me that my time had nearly come, and that I could not live longer than when the trees put on their green once more. Then I happened to got one of the Seigel pamphlets. read it, and my dear mother bought me a bottle of Seigel's Syrup, which I took exactly according to directions, and I had not taken the whole of it before I felt a great change for the better. My last illness began June 3rd, 1882, and continued to August 9th, when I began to take the Syrnp. Very soon I could do a little work.
The cough left me, and I was no more troubled in breathing. Now I am perfectly cured. And on, how happy I am! I cannot express gratitude enough for Seigel's Syrup. Now I must tell you that the doctors in our district distributed handbills cautioning people against the medicine, telling them it would do them no good, and many were thereby influenced to destroy the Seigel pamphlets; but now, wherever one is to be found, it is kept like a relic. The few preserved are borrowed to read, and I have lent mine for air miles around our district. People have come eighteen miles to get me to bny the medicine for them, knowing that it cared me, and to be sure to get the right kind. I know a woman who was looking like death, and who told them there was no help for her, that she had DAVID CORSAR & SONS' consulted several doctors, but none could help her. I told her of Seigel's Syrup, and wrote the name down for her that she might make no mistake. She took my advice and the Syrup, and now she is in perfect health, and the people around us are amazed. The medicine has made such progress in our neighbourhood that people say they don't want the doctor any more, but THE they take the Syrup. Sufferers from gout who were confined to their bed and could hardly move a finger, have been cured by it.
